FTC negotiates land agreement

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission today announced a landmark agreement which could reimburse land buyers for more than $17 million the commission estimates was the product of deceptive advertising.

The agreement was negotiated with GAC Corp. and two subsidiaries with one land development project in Arizona and nine in Florida.

The negotiated agreement between the FTC and the Miami-based company requires GAC to provide prominent warning statements in all future sales contracts and to offer refunds to eligible purchasers who default on payments in the Golden Gate Estates, River Ranch Acres and Remuda Ranch Grants subdivisions in Florida.

J. Thomas Rosch, head of the FTC's Bureau of Consumer Protection, estimated the refunds could cost GAC more than $17 million.

Future sales contracts used by GAC would contain the statement: "The future value of this land, like all undeveloped real estate, is uncertain." The contract would also grant purchasers the unconditional right to cancel with no penalty within 10 days.

The order would also provide various measures to allow buyers since certain dates to swap useless land they might be holding for more valuable lots.

The FTC said the GAC subdivisions include Rio Rico in Arizona, and the following nine in Florida: Barefoot Bay, Cape Coral, Golden Gate, Golden Gate Estates, North Golden Gate, Poinciana, Remuda Ranch Grants, River Ranch Acres and River Ranch Shores.

"The shock wave that will go through the industry is going to be enormous," the source said.

Although GAC did not admit to violations of the law under the agreement, it has agreed to make restitution in the form of credits of other property to land buyers who can prove they have been wronged, the sources said.

In addition, the firm has agreed not to use the word "investment" in its future advertisements on land and has agreed to permit prospective land buyers a 10-day period in which they can call off the sales contract even after signing it.

Under current government regulations administered by the Housing and Urban Development Department, there is a 48-hour cooling-off period in which land buyers can back out of a sales contract, although this waiting period can be waived in certain circumstances.

Middle East topic for talks in Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Communist party secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev met 3½ hours in the Kremlin today and opened "discussions on the Middle East."

During eight hours together Monday, the Soviet Communist party leader and Kissinger focused on strategic arms limitations and the European security conference in Geneva.

It was presumed that those subjects were again taken up today, but U.S. officials said they had moved on to the Middle East situation before the end of the morning session.

In addition to Kissinger's advisers on nuclear weapons and European problems, the American delegation included Alfred Atherton, the assistant secretary of state for Near Eastern affairs. This indicated that Kissinger was urging Brezhnev to influence the Syrian government to accept a disengagement agreement with Israel.

The Soviet government announced today that President Hafez Assad of Syria would visit Moscow early next month. Western diplomats said he probably wants to consult with Brezhnev before the start of the disengagement negotiations in Washington.

Stung by Kissinger's success in arranging the Israeli withdrawal from the Suez Canal, the Russians have begun to claim a cardinal role in Middle East peacemaking. The Soviet press is declaring that no permanent settlement can be negotiated without Soviet participation.

This is coupled with press warnings of the dangers of a new war on the Golan Heights if an Israeli withdrawal is not achieved quickly. The newspaper Trud said today that "world public opinion" is "seriously concerned" about the recent intense artillery duels between the Israeli and Syrian forces. It said the Israelis "are playing with fire."

Soviet disenchantment with the new entente between President Anwar Sadat of Egypt and the United States was evidenced in a short Tass dispatch from Beirut published by Pravda, the Communist party newspaper.

It said the Lebanese press had published an appeal by a group of prominent Lebanese officials to Sadat calling on him to put an end to attacks on his predecessor.

"This appeal was published in connection with the appearance recently of a number of articles aimed at Nasser and the policies he carried out," Tass said.

It was Nasser who aligned Egypt with the Soviet Union and opened the Middle East to Soviet influence in exchange for Soviet arms and Soviet aid in building the Aswan High Dam.

Subcommittee opens plane crash hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The DC10 jumbo jet which crashed near Paris earlier this month taking 346 lives had not undergone a key modification on a cargo door, a National Transportation Safety Board official said today.

C. O. Miller, director of the board's Bureau of Aviation Safety, told a Senate aviation subcommittee there was multiple evidence suggesting the cargo door was not locked properly and that one of the first pieces separated from the plane was the aft cargo door.

Although Miller testified the French have not determined the official cause of the crash, experts believe that sudden decompression of the cargo hole buckled the aircraft floor, jammed the rudder controls running through the floor, and caused the crash.

Miller said it was apparent that the modifications that McDonnell-Douglas, manufacturer of the plane, thought had been made on the door were in fact not made.

The panel, headed by Sen. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., opened hearings to look into the crash.

House committee receives grand jury report on Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee today received the federal grand jury's report on President Nixon's alleged role in Watergate.

After giving the report and a satchel filled with evidence to lawyers from the House Judiciary Committee, U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica told newsmen, "They've got everything the grand jury turned over to me."

Sirica also read a brief statement which concluded "so far as the court is concerned the transaction is concluded."

John Doar, chief counsel for the impeachment inquiry and Albert Jenner, minority counsel, spent more than two hours in Sirica's office going over each item in the satchel.

Also present was Peter Kriendler of the special prosecutor's office.

Lawyers for two defendants in the Watergate cover-up case gave up their attempts to block transmission of the report to the House after the U.S. Court of Appeals turned them down last Thursday.

The grand jury gave Sirica a sealed envelope and the satchel March 1, the same day it indicted seven former administration or campaign aides for allegedly trying to block the investigation of the Watergate break-in.

Lawyers for two of the defendants, H. R. Haldeman and Gordon C. Strachan, tried to have Sirica's order reversed on the grounds that once given to a congressional committee, the contents of the report would leak out and possibly prejudice the cover-up trial.

The appeals court said such contentions were "premature at the least." The court said such claims should be based on what has actually happened rather than on what might occur.

During arguments before the appeals court, Philip A. Lacovara, counsel for the special prosecutor's office, said the sealed material included a letter of transmittal, a report that listed the items of evidence, and the evidence itself.

Sirica said the report "draws no accusatory conclusions ... It renders no moral or social judgments. The report is a simple and straight forward compilation of information gathered by the grand jury, and no more."

In addition to Haldeman and Strachan, the grand jury indicted John D. Ehrlichman, former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, former assistant Atty. Gen. Robert C. Mardian, former White House special counsel Charles W. Colson and Kenneth W. Parkinson, former attorney for the President's reelection finance committee.

In a related matter, defendants in the White House plumbers case, in response to a judge's request for recommendations for a trial date, suggested dates ranging from next July 15 to March 1, 1975.

Ehrlichman, Colson, G. Gordon Liddy, Bernard L. Barker, Eugenio R. Martinez and Felipe DeDiego are charged with violating the civil rights of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist. In addition, Ehrlichman is charged with lying to the FBI and a grand jury.

In another court filing, the special prosecutor's office asked the appeals court to deny Watergate conspirator James W. McCord's motion for reversal of his conviction on conspiracy, burglary and wiretapping charges.

In a related development, House Speaker Carl Albert turned down a request by Judiciary Committee member John Conyers Jr., D-Mich., that Albert seek television time to reply to Nixon's comments about the committee.

Albert said he did not want the impeachment inquiry to turn into an adversary confrontation between the executive and legislative. He also said he knows of no basis for Nixon's criticism that the committee would like to carry off White House documents at will.

And, Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler criticized what he called "out of context, partisan-motivated leaks" from the Senate-House Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation. That is the joint committee that is studying the President's personal tax returns.

Ziegler's comments came when he was asked about a report that the Internal Revenue Service was investigating Nixon's 1968 return. Ziegler said he could not find any of Nixon's tax advisers who knew of such an IRS inquiry.

Also, Monday, House Intelligence subcommittee Chairman Lucien N. Nedzi said a friend and the wife of Watergate burglar James D. McCord burned McCord's collection of newspapers, magazines, clippings and personal papers shortly after the June 17, 1972, Watergate burglary.

But, Nedzi also said his investigation turned up no evidence that the papers were burned to destroy Watergate evidence, or that the CIA was involved, despite the fact that the friend was a CIA informant.

Gambling measure killed

Home rule measure is debated

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Democratic and Republican senators from St. Louis County squared off today over whether the number of county councilmen should be 15 instead of seven.

Sen. Donald Gralik, D-Lemay, offered an amendment to a home rule constitutional amendment to provide wider representation.

He was supported by Sen. Maurice Schechter, D-Creve Coeur, and was opposed by Sens. A. Clifford Jones, R-Brentwood, Frank Bild, R-St. Louis County, and Edward Stone, R-Chesterfield.

"The county residents should be able to increase the size," Jones said. "We should not legislate for one specific county in a home rule bill."

Schechter and Gralik said they wanted to copy the Jackson County plan. Jackson County's legislature has 15 members. At present, Schechter said, a St. Louis County council member must represent 133,000 constituents.

The debate was on a measure to allow the people to vote on a constitutional amendment to extend "home rule" or the charter form of government to all the state's counties. Then they could conduct their own affairs so long as they did not violate state law, said the sponsor, Sen. Larry Marshall, R-Columbia.

In other action, the Senate gave first round approval to a bill allowing teachers who retire after 15 years' service to be paid $125 a month for being consultants to school districts.

Candidates presented

First Ward Republicans, some 26 strong, heard Republican candidates and office holders at their ward meeting at Mark Twain School Monday night.

First Ward council candidate Allen Hawkins, police judge candidate Ralph Hamlin and Mayor Jerry Jones, running for a second term, all delivered short speeches. In addition, First Ward Republican Councilman Don Broadus spoke to the group and Second and Third Ward candidates Lyle W. McMullin and Don Carver were introduced to the gathering.

Broadus spoke first and encouraged those present to work for Hawkins'

The measure is designed to supplement their retirement income it would affect about 4,100 retired teachers.

The measure was amended to have the plan financed by teachers' retirement system and not from the state's general revenue fund.

The House, meanwhile, gave first-round approval to a bill making it a misdemeanor for an employer to fail to make payments to an employee retirement plan after promising in writing to do so.

Monday, the House killed proposed constitutional amendments to set up a state lottery, allow pari-mutuel betting and to divert gasoline tax revenues for mass transit.

The House gave first-round approval to a bill to limit corporate farming in Missouri. However, the bill would not stop the proposed giant hog ranch near Kahoka.

The betting and lottery measure died on an 89-61 vote. Sponsor Earl Schief, D-Dellwood, said the wagering would have brought a revenue boost to Missouri, but opponents countered that organized crime often follows legalized betting.

The bill to limit corporate farms would not apply to current conglomerates and would not cover nurseries, experimental farms, and some small corporate farm operations.

Area representatives oppose betting bill

Pettis County's three state representatives Monday unanimously opposed a proposed state constitutional amendment to permit pari-mutuel betting on horse racing and to allow other forms in gambling in Missouri.

Representatives Pete Stohr, Bill Peterson and Curt Davidson all cast their votes with the majority of legislators who voted 88-62 to defeat the proposal. Stohr is a Republican; Peterson and Davidson are Democrats.

The measure would also have allowed the Legislature to establish a state lottery and to permit certain charitable organizations to conduct lotteries and other games of chance. The state constitution currently forbids any form of gambling.

First Ward Republicans meet election because, "We need some active, enthusiastic, intelligent thinkers on the council."

"We don't want people just occupying the chair. We want people who are community thinkers."

"Allen will think for himself," Broadus said. "No one will tell him what to do."

Hawkins said he is trying to carry on a house-to-house campaign.

"The time has come for something to be done to curb the spread of organized prostitution and drug traffic," Hawkins said.

"I feel strongly that attending to business means being present at all council meetings," he said.

Hamlin said he feels he is qualified to be police judge because of his work in the law enforcement field for the last several years. He proposed holding night court once a week for people who forfeit bond rather than give up a half-day of pay to attend court during the day.

Also, he said he would like to see the system of fines systemized. Hamlin said it disturbed him to see one person fined $5 for running a stop sign and the next person fined $15 for the same offense.

Jones said, "it is very important that we consider a man's integrity, character and motives."

"Within the last few years, we have made some good strides in our community. But I don't think the time has come as yet that we can sit back on our hands and say

Appropriations bill is sent to governor

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Senate has passed and sent to Gov. Christopher S. Bond a $29.7 million appropriations bill to authorize spending by state agencies in this fiscal year.

The bill passed 23-8 Monday after some senators questioned how many money grants were true emergencies. The money will be granted on top of regular appropriations. About $7 million of the total comes from state tax money.

The most controversial section of the bill transferred the Independence Residence Center of Central Missouri State University to the University of Missouri.

Sen. A. Clifford Jones, R-Brentwood, said approval of the transfer would cost the state millions in later money bills. Sen. Earl Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, agree and said many grants in the bill were not emergencies.

Blackwell called a $2 million grant to the University of Missouri-St. Louis for a new administration building an emergency—my eye.

Introducing the bill, Sen. Norman

Merrell, D-Monticello, said the bill will fund a pay raise for rural state employees. The raise was called for by a law passed last session that requires rural-urban pay scales to be equal.

The bill also granted the legislature about $940,000 for unexpected costs.

Northwest Missouri State University at Maryville, suffering an enrollment loss, received $450,000 to get into the black. The Ellis Fischel State Cancer Hospital at Columbia received about $65,000 for drugs and other supplies.

The bill also allowed the release of $18 million federal tax money to fight water pollution and $1.8 million for welfare system costs.

The measure was the product of a joint House conference committee last week. It contains relatively little of the program by program line item budgeting that other House money bills contain.

House appropriations chief James Russell, D-Florissant, said that some of the detail is needed to make sure that state agencies spend their money according to legislative intent.

Three school board candidates quizzed

By RON JENNINGS
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

At a meeting sparked by discussions of minority-student treatment and awareness in the local school system, three candidates for the Sedalia school board responded to questions Monday night at a "know your candidates" forum sponsored by the Sedalia-Pettis County League of Women Voters. About 25 persons attended.

Appearing at the session, held in the Municipal Building, were board candidates Mrs. Paul Hausam, Mrs. Alyce Williams and Eugene Sims. Incumbent candidate Mrs. Jane Dugan was unable to attend due to illness in her family.

Clarifying a League question asking what plans she would recommend for providing Smith-Cotton High School with the additional vocational credits required by the State by July 1, 1976, Mrs. Hausam, a former board member, pointed out that the requirements have already been met.

"We have been bussing students to Warrensburg and Marshall to meet these requirements," she explained. "What will be changing next school year is that, fortunately, these students will begin attending vocational-technical classes at State Fair Community College. This will make it more convenient for them and less expensive for the district."

Sims indicated his "immediate response" to this question would be "to push fully for the passage of the proposed school levy increase." Mrs. Williams indicated she would encourage additional cooperation from SFCC because "in trying to provide the very best vocational program necessary, I feel that it is a primary responsibility of the board to work with SFCC in this respect."

The second League question, concerning the candidates' consideration of long-range and immediate goals proposed by the Heagerty Report, released earlier in the year, met with varying responses.

Mrs. Williams stressed she would be concerned with long-range aims "because I've got two children not even in school yet." She also pledged to continue working for the immediate goals in the schools, whether she was elected or not.

"I'll still be participating whatever the election result may be," she said. "I feel this way because I feel the quality of education is the responsibility of the community and every person."

Sims, who has four children in school, commented he believed "the school has done a good job on short and long-range planning already and I would have to give the matter more study before arriving at any definite conclusions in this regard."

Mrs. Dugan, in a written response, commented that "the board has given it (the report) much consideration. There are now 114 credit units at Smith-Cotton rather than 66 last year. I think this is a definite improvement. I think the establishment of the Hubbard School special education facility is a good example of meeting our long-range plans. There are only three other systems in Missouri offering comparable facilities and programs."

Financial prudence in realizing selected objectives was encouraged by Mrs. Hausam, who said: "I believe that many of the proposals are completely sound ... but we have to remember that the importance of living within our means. I would also hope that the district levy proposal is approved so that we can have more money to help realize the objectives which we hold to be important."

Responding to a question from the audience asking the candidates what programs they would cut first if the school levy proposal was defeated, Mrs. Hausam and Mr. Sims agreed that teacher aides should probably be the first to go. Mrs. Williams declined to specifically answer the question, saying "I'm thinking positively about the bond levy. It just cannot fail. I'm not going to think otherwise. We can't have negative thinking about this levy and expect it to pass."

Wayne Kitchen, a teacher at the junior high school, commented to all the candidates that instances had been reported to him of black children not being able to participate in special night education courses at Mark Twain, Jefferson, Washington and Whittier schools due to lack of transportation. He then asked them how they would deal with the situation.

At the request of Mrs. Hausam, P. A. Sillers, director of elementary education, who was in the audience, explained that school officials had recently obtained additional federal funding to provide busing to transport Northside students to the schools at night. The buses, he said, are currently picking up students at Hubbard School and at the Anthony Buckner Housing Complex.

Only students attending the four participating schools are eligible to attend the night sessions, it was explained.

Commenting on another audience question, in which it was asked what steps they would recommend be taken to increase racial harmony and awareness of minority groups by the entire district, Sims replied that "it begins with the efforts of both blacks and whites ... to understand more about each other. You've got to work together to seek appropriate action."

Mrs. Williams suggested introducing additional ethnic awareness courses at the local level and taking stronger steps to insure the effective assimilation of blacks into school activities. "I'm concerned about ALL our children's education," she said.

Mrs. Hausam indicated that she favored ethnic awareness courses, "but as an elective, and not a required, course."

Asked whether she would approve long-range budgeting, in which the school budget was adjusted to withhold certain amounts of money over the years for future programs, Mrs. Hausam commented, that, while she favored certain areas of long-range planning, she felt "people really wouldn't like it very much if they knew a large amount of money was being stashed away every year for the future, while needs for the present go unfilled in certain instances."

Three facing charges on controlled substance

Three Iowa residents were charged in Pettis County Magistrate Court Tuesday with possession of a controlled substance, a felony.

The three, Daniel Dean Hamilton, 26, and Gary Lee Ingle, 25, of Sigourney, Iowa; and Gregg Leroy Ingle, 20, of Ottumwa, Iowa, were arrested by Sedalia police Monday afternoon after they were stopped on a routine check at Grand and Main.

Hamilton's wife, Cheryl Ann Hamilton, 18, also was arrested by Sedalia police but no charges were filed against her Tuesday morning.

Police Chief William Miller said Tuesday that Det. Sgt. Perry Franklin observed the four at a local liquor store about 3 p.m. Monday and, thinking the girl might be under age to purchase liquor, stopped the vehicle for a routine check.

Miller said that when Franklin and officer John DeJarnette stopped the car, the occupants were observed throwing something from the windows.

Miller said a quantity of what is believed to be marijuana and narcotics were found in the vehicle when searched. Miller said the substances will be taken to a laboratory to determine whether they are narcotics. He also said that a small drug scale, the type used to measure narcotics and drugs, was found in the car.

Approximately seven ounces, or 210 grams, of substance thought to be marijuana was found in the vehicle, Miller added.

All four had been staying at the Sunset Motel here. Prosecuting Attorney Gary Fleming said.

The three who were charged were still being held in the city jail Tuesday morning.

In another arrest Monday, Billy Wayne Denton, 19, Route 2, was taken into custody by police at Main and Grand about 5:15 p.m. and held for investigation of unlawful entry.

According to police, Denton was arrested in connection with the theft of a portable television set from the Ronald Lampton residence, 1300 South Ohio, on March 12. Value of the television was put at $85.

Police indicated they will turn the information on the case over to Fleming for further action.

Former Sedalian gets probation on drug charge

(Democrat-Capital Service)

COLUMBIA — A former Sedalia man, Dale Diefenbach, was sentenced to seven years in the state penitentiary and then placed on probation Monday in Boone County Circuit Court here.

Diefenbach, 27, Kansas City, had pleaded guilty Jan. 28 to a charge of sale of marijuana, but sentencing was postponed until Monday.

Diefenbach was charged with selling 112.3 grams of marijuana on Sept. 12, 1972, to a special agent for the U.S. Department of Justice's Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs. The alleged drug sale took place in LaMonte, where Diefenbach was living at the time.

The case was moved from Pettis County to Boone County on a change of venue.

Prosecuting Attorney Gary Fleming had recommended to Boone County Circuit Court Judge Frank Conley that Diefenbach be sentenced to five years in the state penitentiary and not be placed on probation.

As a result of plea bargaining with Diefenbach's attorney, Fleming dismissed another felony drug charge against Diefenbach in Pettis County Circuit Court. The charge alleged that Diefenbach was in unlawful possession of 13 amphetamine pills when arrested on April 26, 1971.

Sedalia woman is tricked out of $50

A sleight-of-hand artist made off with $50 cash from Mrs. Christine Foster, 102 West Pettis, Monday evening in the 100 block of West Pacific.

Mrs. Foster told police that a black man in his 30's approached her about 6 p.m. and led her to believe that he had a large sum of money in a roll of bills he displayed and would pay her $200 to keep it for him. Mrs. Foster said the man indicated that he had about $6,000 in the roll.

She said she was talked into putting $50 of her money into a handkerchief with his money at which time he tied the handkerchief into a knot and handed it to her.

Mrs. Foster said when she got home and opened the handkerchief she found only a roll of cut newspaper in place of the money.

Boyle trial starts; two jurors picked

MEDIA, Pa. (AP) — Two jurors have been seated in the murder trial of former United Mine Workers President W. A. "Tony" Boyle, who is accused of ordering the 1969 assassination of a union rival.

The slow task of selecting a jury began Monday.

Boyle's trial was transferred here from Washington County, in southwestern Pennsylvania, where Joseph "Jock" Yablonski, his wife, Margaret, and daughter, Charlotte, were slain as they slept in their rural Clarksville home on Dec. 31, 1969.

Seven men and one woman already have confessed or been convicted in the Yablonski shootings.

Boyle, 72, has pleaded innocent to the charges.

He was brought here from Missouri, where he is serving a three-year federal term for misuse of union funds in the 1968 presidential campaign.

Pope Paul VI ill; has return of flu

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI is sick in bed again, the Vatican announced today. It was the second time in three weeks that the 76-year-old pontiff has been ill.

The Vatican announcement said the Pope's doctors had ordered him to cancel his weekly public audience Wednesday. Vatican sources said he had a mild return of the influenza which hit him March 4-9.

Whip-up a 'natural' face

BY VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Many women are chopping, blending, whipping and grinding home grown or store-bought herbs, fruits, nuts and so on, all in the interest of beauty for the skin, hair and hands.

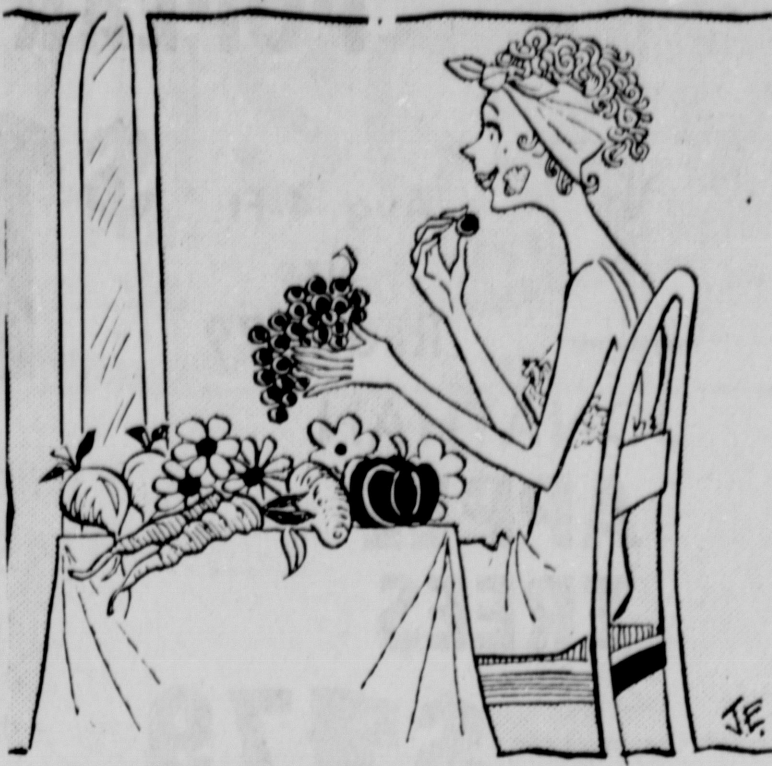

Even the prolific plantain is a skin smoother regarded by the Greeks as a healing herb. Says Dian Dincin Buchman, author of the recently published "The Complete Herbal Guide to Natural Health and Beauty." The book doesn't concentrate on herbs, but it has recipes from nature for everything from mouth sweeteners and hair darkeners to foot baths.

"The old recipes are marvelous, but sometimes they must be brought up to date, like one cleansing cream, my favorite, which needed more wax to keep it from being too runny and it also looked prettier made whiter by whipping."

That recipe, like many in the book, came from Mrs. Buchman's grandmother, a Rumanian herbalist. Others were researched in England and other countries.

Every little thing that grows seems to have some function in beautifying the skin one way or the other, she remarked in an interview. Chamomile, the long-time favorite, is a skin smoother and has been well known as a hair lightener, "but less familiar plants like yarrow and lady's mantle may be made into great astringents. And elder flower water once was considered almost a necessity to have on hand for the complexion," she continued. "It is still used by many present-day herbalists."

You do not need too many of the elderberry blossoms to make a nice complexion wash, she pointed out, offering this formula: Heat about one-half pint of buttermilk and soak in it about 5 tablespoons of the elder blossoms, simmering it for about one-half hour until blossoms are softened. After removing it from the heat, steep it for 4 hours, reheat and strain. Add 2 tablespoons of honey and put it in the refrigerator to be used as a cleanser.

There are lots of impromptu pick-ups that might be utilized. For example, mix the leftover cooked oatmeal with almond meal, gently plaster the face with it. After a while remove it with warm water. Save the remainder for a daily face wash, she advises.

Anyone who must thin out rhubarb beds each year will appreciate a recipe that makes good use of the roots. As a hair lightener, this formula excels, she insists. It is a favorite of a 17-year-old relative of hers. Simmer rhubarb root in water or wine for 20 minutes, steep it for several hours and then strain it twice. Rinse it through your hair several times to get nice highlights. To get a more effective color, especially at the roots, it should be mixed with kaolin into a paste. A recipe for that is in the book.

She also offers recipes for hair darkeners which make use of everything from the leaves of artichokes to the essence of green oranges. And there is a timely recipe for henna, the hair color that is again being adopted by fashionable women, even the younger set. Perhaps its strong appeal is that it is a nontoxic herb. The recipe in the book has been used for thousands of years in the Near and Far East, according to Mrs. Buchman's research.

The process is a long, tedious one, but, as she points out, stabilizing the color requires experience, so one is on one's own. Once you get the hang of it, you may get a rich auburn, brown, black or red color. But one must coat the scalp with safflower or corn oil before using it as it has an astringent quality.

Delightful facials and masks for refreshing the skin in spring and summer may be made with carrots, parsley, cucumber and so on, she says. A cucumber mask goes like this: extract juice of the cucumber in a juicer or blend a small one quickly, add one-fourth teaspoon of cider vinegar or pure lemon juice, 1 teaspoon of witch hazel, 1 teaspoon of alcohol. Take the mixture out of the blender and add one whipped egg white. Pat this mixture on the face and allow it to dry for 15 minutes or more. Wipe it off with tepid water and a soft flannel. Pat dry and use a favorite astringent.

Two optional tightening products for this or any other mask, she says, would be one fourth teaspoon of simple tincture of benzoin or a pinch of alum powder.

Although the recipes have nothing injurious in them, Mrs. Buchman cautions those with very sensitive skins to avoid using any substance that might irritate them.

mechanics, muscle control, posture and relaxation," Mrs. Felten said.

She said she hopes to make the experiences of pregnancy, labor, delivery and post delivery "more meaningful, less difficult and less traumatic for expectant parents through instructions and group discussions" in the six specific areas.

The following subjects will be covered on the indicated date. March 28: Importance of prenatal care; April 2: Growth and development of your baby; April 4: Importance of proper nutrition and use of body mechanics; April 9: Course of labor and activities which make it easier; April 11: Importance of post delivery care and convalescence; April 16: Care of the newborn.

Each class will end with an exercise session to learn relaxation and breathing techniques to reduce discomfort during pregnancy and to aid in labor and delivery.

For more information about the childbirth education classes, Mrs. Felten may be contacted at 826-7608.

Polly's pointers

Tall full glass not child's play

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with those restaurants that bring out a tall glass, full to the brim, when I order a drink for my two years old. Often the waitress gives me a look like I am crazy when I ask for an extra glass so I can pour out some and not have the child spill the drink all over the place. Once I was even asked to pay another 30 cents for that extra glass and it was paper at that. I do wish restaurants would have paper cups handy for children and not bring them glass ones. — MRS. H.

DEAR POLLY — The new bread board Mary bought may have varnish on it. If so I suggest that she lightly sand it to remove the varnish and then rub with a good salad oil. Leave this on for a day and then rinse off what is not absorbed by the wood. My husband made mine and that is the way I treated it. (Polly's note: I would not rinse off the board but just wipe away ALL the excess oil). — ELEANOR.

DEAR POLLY — Firewood has soared sky high since the energy crisis but I get mine for free. My neighbors save all their newspapers for me and I roll them tightly, soak in water for a few minutes and then put them out to dry. I have "wood burning logs" that are especially good for night. You can place an arm full in your fireplace and they will burn slowly and keep the room nice and warm. Mine are all for free since I bind the rolls with ties that come around the hay I feed my cows. — MRS. V.M.S.

DEAR POLLY — Instead of using the flat end of a knife, as I used to do, to level off measurements for cooking and baking I now use popsicle sticks that I have saved and cleaned. They are kept in canisters and containers of baking supplies and I save myself time, steps and washing of knives. — DOROTHY.

DEAR POLLY — After reading how one reader made toys from old alarm clocks I must tell you how my husband made toy trains. He used wooden cheese boxes for the cars with windows of labels pasted on. The engine was a frozen orange juice can with a spool attached for a smoke stack. Checkers made the wheels and were put together with a screw eye and hook to form a set of an engine and three cars. After painting they were ready to go. The neighborhood children loved them and a child was always waiting for one and he even won an award for making trains from used materials. — MRS. B.F.W.

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY — My thread breaks far too often when I am sewing on the machine. The machine has been checked so I can only suppose this is caused by lightweight spools which thread now comes on. Has any other reader had this problem? If so, what was done to solve it? — Pat.

You will receive a dollar if Polly uses your favorite home-making idea, Pet Peeve, Polly's Problem or solution to a problem. Write Polly in care of this newspaper. (NEA)

Club notes

LaMonte Lions Club Dinner meeting was held March 18 at the LaMonte American Legion Hall.

Guest speaker was Kenneth Velharticky, planner for Show-Me Regional Planning Commission, Warrensburg. Velharticky spoke on planning and zoning for cities and towns and showed an aerial view of LaMonte.

Bothwell Extension Club met Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Fred Gordon. Mrs. Roy Alexander spoke on how to become a more beautiful woman.

The club voted to send $25 to the Opfer family.

A double knit quilt was begun for Buena Vista.

Pettis County Democratic Women's Club met Tuesday at the Missouri State Bank Building. Candidates for city offices spoke to 50 members and guests.

The 42nd anniversary dinner will be held May 21 at the Junior High School.

The Washington PTA met Thursday with Mrs. Wayne Rhoads, president, conducting the business meeting.

P.A. Sillers spoke on the upcoming levy increase. He said the increase was necessary to provide free books for high school students, an increase in staff wages and an increase in operating expenses to maintain AAA standards.

The fourth district Missouri Junior Music Festival, sponsored by the National and State Federation of Music Clubs was held at the Heard Memorial Club House and the First Baptist Church. Eleven federated junior clubs from Jefferson City, Fulton and Sedalia were represented by 156 entrants.

Judges for the day were Dr. and Mrs. Wesley True, Warrensburg, and Mrs. Theodore Coffelt, 1512 West Fourth.

Twelve advanced students who received superior ratings will present a program for the Helen G. Steele Music Club at 2 p.m. Wednesday.

Fourth district state chairman of the Missouri Junior Festivals is Mrs. William B. Hurt. Assisting the all-day activities were Mrs. Lee Deason, Mrs. Eugene Logan, Mrs. Otis Thomas, Mrs. Virgil Ragar, Mrs. Fred Biggs, Mrs. Clark Baker, Mrs. George Lovercamp, Mrs. I.H. Lehmer and Mrs. Stanley Fisher.

Mu Iota Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Judy Evans for election of officers for 1974-75. Elected were Mrs. Shirley Torbet, president; Mrs. Jean Thornton, vice president; Mrs. Connie Thompson, treasurer; Mrs. Pat Adkins, recording secretary; Mrs. Judy Evans, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Dale Skinner, extension officer; and Mrs. Monica Cloud, city council representative.

Chapter members voted to help sponsor a child to send to Show Me Opportunity Camp.

Mrs. John Leary demonstrated how to make a terrarium.

Where and why are your tax dollars going?

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The Tax Foundation points out that the average American spends 2 hours and 37 minutes of his work day to pay federal state and local taxes. That's more than 13 hours a week, or about four months a year.

Relentless in its pursuit of spenders, it notes further that the proposed federal budget for the coming year will average $4,013 for each of the nation's 71 million households, up $1,214 in just four years.

There is no limit to statistics such as these, as you might guess. But what often is lacking is an interpretation, especially in regard to where the money is going, and why.

One man with strong opinions is Prof. Roland N. McKean of the University of Virginia, an economist, author of various books, and contributor to United States government committees and panels.

Writing in the foundation's

"Tax Review," he suggests that the "products" of government are inferior, wasteful dangerous and against the public good.

McKean says they include tariffs, price-support programs, regulatory programs, housing, welfare and defense.

"When I say that the consumer continues to face shoddy products, hazardous products, and misleading advertising, I think mainly of the public goods that he buys," McKean states.

He insists they should be examined in the same manner as private sector goods — from the standpoint of quality, safety, price, advertising and misleading information.

"As a consumer I do indeed feel put upon regarding the quality of my goods — but it's not so much because my hot dogs are 30 per cent chicken and bread crumbs; it's much more because my public goods often seem to be 70 per cent baloney," he said.

The public accounting firm of Coopers & Lybrand believes tax bills might be lower if waste was eliminated or reduced at the local levels. After auditing and further studying five middle-size cities, the company found:

- Antiquated budget systems.
- Failures in utilizing possible federal grants.
- Underutilization of electronic computers.
- Lack of modern management techniques for planning, controlling and evaluating operations.

Said Philip L. Defiese, the firm's managing partner:

"Cities are organized to meet the public's needs, while businesses are established primarily to turn a profit."

"But if cities would adopt more business practices they could deliver more public service at no more cost to the taxpayers."

The greatest fall recorded by a cat was one of 120 feet in London in 1965.

Kidnap plot developed during drinking session

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — The FBI says the kidnaping of a banker's wife was planned by three men during a night-long beer-drinking session.

In an affidavit attached to a complaint filed against Thomas Gary Hodgman on his arrest Monday, the FBI said the three men charged in the abduction of Eunice Kronholm drove to suburban Lino Lakes early March 15 after the drinking session in a Minneapolis bar.

Two of the kidnapers crept through a wooded area to the Kronholm house and hid in a shed until Mrs. Kronholm emerged from her home that morning to keep a beauty salon appointment, according to the FBI affidavit.

Mrs. Kronholm was taken captive and was held for 3½ days. She was released by one of her kidnapers after he heard on the radio that the FBI had arrested James W. Johnson, 35, in connection with the kidnaping.

Hodgman, Johnson and Frederick H. Helberg Jr., 43, are charged under the Hobbs Act with extorting $200,000 in ransom money from Mrs. Kronholm's husband, Gunnar, president of the Drovers' State Bank of South St. Paul.

Committee approves milk probe resolution

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A proposed legislative investigation into milk pricing in Missouri, prompted by skyrocketing consumer prices and allegations of kickbacks and other irregularities in the dairy chain, received a major boost Monday night.

The House Agriculture Committee approved a resolution setting up a House-Senate committee to conduct the probe. The resolution now goes to the House floor.

Meanwhile, Rep. Earl L. Sponsler, D-Cabot, confirmed reports that the state Department of Agriculture plans to begin taking action against dairy firms that have allegedly been violating the law through kickbacks and price-fixing.

Sponsler declined to elaborate on the reported crackdown, but he said it would begin May 1. Other sources said the action would run parallel with any legislative inquiry into alleged irregularities.

According to one official, the planned crackdown by the Agriculture Department was a major reason the department has maintained the secrecy of milk pricing records in its possession—to ensure that any possible court action against dairy firms would not be prejudiced by pre-trial publicity.

According to Sponsler, his resolution, unanimously adopted by the committee, will give any inquiry a "target point." He contended such focus was better than the "shotgun approach" contained in the original resolution sponsored by Rep. Morris G. Westfall, R-Hallway.

Westfall, who represents two of the state's five largest dairy producing counties, said he was reasonably satisfied with the substitute resolution as amended, although "it may not go as far as I wanted it to."

Under the House Agriculture Committee resolution, which must also receive Senate approval, a 10-man committee would look into the provisions of the Unfair Milk Sales Practices Act of 1959 "and other practices and procedures affecting milk pricing at all levels in the state of Missouri."

The committee would have subpoena power as well as the power to take testimony under oath. It would conduct its inquiry during the interim between the end of this legislative session and the start of the new one next January, filing its findings with that legislature.

The Unfair Milk Sales Practices Act was passed in an effort to prohibit milk pricing wars and stabilize the market, but several members of the committee charged that they have never known the law to "do anything for the consumer or the dairy farmer."

"The committee that undertakes this is going to have to be a tough committee," Rep. William Peterson, D-Marshall, said of the proposed investigation. "This could be the toughest thing undertaken by the legislature ever."

Isolation of cancer viruses is predicted

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP) — Within a year, scientists should isolate one or two viruses that they can prove cause human cancers, a prominent specialist predicts.

If this comes about, it could open the door to vaccinating people against those specific cancers, much like a polio vaccination.

Or it could provide a means through which doctors could tell if the cancer virus and disease were still present and active, or whether curative treatments were being effective.

The prediction comes from Dr. Sol Spiegelman, director of the Institute of Cancer Research at Columbia University's College of Physicians and Surgeons in New York City.

His own work points strongly to evidence that viruses cause human cancer.

Viruses are known to cause cancers in chickens and other animals.

Spiegelman said he knows of two groups of researchers whose work he thinks will, within the year, demonstrate that a virus can cause human cancer. One involves a cancer of the breast and the other a cancer of bone, he said.

Speaking on Monday to a seminar for science writers sponsored by the American Cancer Society, Spiegelman declined to identify the two groups of researchers. He said neither is his own, which has come close to such proof.

If viruses should be shown to cause human cancers, it definitely does not mean that a person with cancer is infectious to other people, Spiegelman and others emphasized.

Assets for Sedalia in private hospital

What impact will the construction of a private hospital have on Sedalia and surrounding area?

That question was thrust into public attention last week, with the announcement by American Institutional Development (AID), a St. Louis-based firm, that it plans to build a $3½ million, 150-bed hospital here. Work could begin this summer, and be completed in 14 months.

The proposed Sedalia Medical Center would be a totally private venture, as contrasted to city-owned Bothwell Memorial Hospital. Because of this, and the fact that the new hospital will not handle Medicare or Medicaid patients, some observers see a doubtful future for Bothwell Hospital which, they maintain, will be left with the poor and the aged.

This does not necessarily have to be the case. Sedalia and this area may well be able to properly support both hospitals, without such a division occurring. One factor that will help to make this possible is the wide geographic area that the Sedalia Medical Center plans to draw from, through the utilization of AID "satellite" hospitals to the south that would funnel patients here.

Bothwell Hospital already draws from a fairly wide area, and the initiation of a helicopter "ferry" service to the Sedalia Medical Center from points even further away would speed up the trend toward making the city a true regional medical center.

The president of the Pettis County Medical Society has stated that Sedalia needs another hospital, and several other doctors, who agreed to send patients to the proposed medical center, have expressed their approval.

Last but not least, area residents will benefit simply from having a greatly expanded scope of medical facilities available to them, which in itself will help to attract more doctors and health personnel to Sedalia.

Future presidents' debt to Nixon

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's main defense against turning over documents and tapes to the House Judiciary Committee is that he is not trying to protect himself but the office of the Presidency. He has said he has to think of future presidents when he makes these unpopular decisions to withhold evidence that under any other conditions he would be happy to turn over to Congress.

I think the President is right.

Buchwald

The year is 2001, and President Harley Finckley, who was overwhelmingly elected by the Radical Energy Party (both the Republican and Democratic parties had gone bankrupt during the Great Depression of 1983), is sitting in the Oval office at the White House.

His most trusted legal adviser, John Dean IV, the son of John Dean III, comes in. "Mr. President, I report to you that there is a cancer in your administration.

There are people in your own White House family who are trying to mortally wound you."

"I'm glad you told me about that, John. What exactly is going on around here?"

"Well, do you remember last June when seven men broke into the offices of the United Constitutional Party at the Vesco Trade Center?"

"I think I saw something about it on television."

"They're threatening to talk about their connection with the Radical Energy Re-Election Committee unless we pay them hush money."

"How much would it cost, John?"

"Three trillion dollars."

"We could raise that, John. But it would be wrong."

"Yessir, Mr. President. But if we don't hush them they may talk about the $10 trillion contribution the nuclear energy producers gave to you to raise the price of uranium in the United States."

"I forgot about that."

"There's also the $4 trillion contribution from ITT which was made the day before we agreed to let them buy General Motors, Chrysler and Ford."

"That's not my problem."

"But, sir, we have the meeting on television tape of the chairman of ITT handing you the money."

"What's it doing on television tape?"

"Don't you recall, sir, you ordered all the meetings in the White House to be televised for historical reasons?"

"I forgot about that."

"But the real thing we have to worry about is the break-in of the Washington Redskins' psychiatrist's office. Remember, sir, you wanted to take a look at the psychiatric profiles of the team before you bet on them?"

"Yes, I do remember that, and our people botched it up completely. They stole the records of the Washington Senators, and we haven't had a baseball team here for 30 years."

"I also have to warn you that they're looking into how you got the money to buy the island of Hawaii."

"I borrowed it like everybody else."

"And then there are your taxes. A lot of people cannot understand how on an annual income of $20 trillion you paid only $2.50 in income taxes for 1999."

"I donated all my piano music books to the National Archives."

"Yessir, Mr. President. But what should we do about hush money for the break-in of the Vesco Trade Center?"

"Do anything you have to do to save me."

"But suppose someone finds out?"

"What's the difference? They can't touch me."

"They can't?"

"Nope. Thanks to the foresight of the greatest constitutional president in American history, Richard M. Nixon. God knows what would have happened to this office if he had taken the easy way out."

A conservative view

U.S. lags in defense alarming

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — Sen. James L. Buckley of New York leaped onto the national stage last week with his plea for the President's resignation, but the senator had earned attention earlier this month on a different matter: national defense. Buckley has sounded alarm bells that our country will ignore at its peril.

Kilpatrick

Writing in the March 15 issue of National Review, the senator has pulled together data from a dozen intelligence sources. He lets the figures speak for themselves, and the figures speak eloquently: In every significant area of defense, the United States now lags behind the Soviet Union.

The requested defense budget for fiscal '75, amounting to $85.8 billion, represents the largest dollar amount ever proposed. The sum already has attracted criticism for its "extravagance," but Buckley argues convincingly that the request is not extravagant at all. Compared to what the Soviet Union is spending, the $85.8 billion is dangerously low.

Defense spending often is analyzed in terms of strategic forces and conventional weapons. Americans can find no comfort in either sector.

There was a time when the United States dominated the entire world in terms of nuclear weapons. This was the period of the 1950s and 1960s when our deterrent strategy was based upon the "nuclear umbrella." The winds of change have blown that concept inside out. "The American nuclear umbrella," says Buckley, "is no longer credible — either to us or to our allies; or, more importantly, to our potential adversaries."

Over the past five years, expenditures for strategic forces have declined from one-third of the defense budget to less than one-tenth. If the Soviet Union also were reducing its strategic capability, our own changing emphasis might cause no alarm. Buckley observes that the Russians have relaxed nothing. The Soviet Union has developed five new strategic ballistic missiles and two new missile-launching submarines within one year.

The picture is as bleak in terms of conventional weapons. On paper, the United States retains an advantage in heavy bombers and major naval vessels, but the advantage is only on paper. Both the bombers and the ships are aging. By contrast, half the Soviet fleet has been launched since 1964. Its air force has been modernized and expanded. The introduction of two highly advanced MIG fighters "proves they are still willing to spend large sums for high quality general-purpose forces."

"While our disinvestment has accelerated since 1968," Buckley writes, "the Soviet Union has increased its armed forces from 3.3 million in 1964 to 3.42 million in 1973. While our ground forces have declined, the Soviets have maintained 75 divisions at full strength throughout the period. Moreover, they have increased the total number of organized divisions that could be mobilized with reserves from 140 to 162 (105 motorized rifle division, 50 tank, and 7 airborne). These troops are being re-equipped with modern tanks, artillery, and antitank weapons."

Buckley is not a pessimist, a defeatist, or a prophet of doom. It is not too late for the United States to regain a qualitative parity in this vital competition. But he asks the country to understand what is happening as the Soviets build up — and we let down.

"So We Know You Carry a Big Stick! Now
How About the Speaking Softly Part?"

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — An explosive Federal Communications Commission study which would reform the inane world of children's television, has been stuffed in a government safe. Meanwhile, its supporters on the commission have been replaced by bosom pals of big broadcasters.

The report demands an end to hard-sell ads to kids, cutbacks in witless cartoons and more decent children's shows scheduled at appropriate hours. Violators, no matter how powerful, would risk loss of their licenses.

Had the study been accepted by the FCC, it would have cost the broadcast industry tens of millions of dollars a year. The broadcasters would have been compelled to produce more programs for children and to slice their 32 commercials per hour to no more than 18. This is the generous allotment currently allowed to adult shows.

These and other dramatic changes were envisioned by former FCC Chairman Dean Burch.

Outraged at what he had personally seen of children's programming, he set up a special Children's Television Unit in September 1971. At its head was a tough-minded Dr. Elizabeth Roberts, an ex-coordinator of the White House Conference on Children and Youth. For months, the Roberts team studied the puerile world of children's TV.

Four months ago, she delivered the sizzling document to Burch, who forthwith locked it up in his office. Since then, Burch has moved to the White House and his two staunchest allies in the matter, Commissioners Nick Johnson and Rex Lee, have left the FCC.

We have now obtained a bootleg copy of the suppressed document from under the nose of the new chairman, Richard Wiley. As general counsel and commissioner, Wiley, according to FCC sources, was kinder to network treasuries than to children's welfare. The report's recommendations, therefore, are now in jeopardy.

Merry-go-round

Report on kids' TV locked in FCC safe

The 45-page document condemns out of hand the "noise, violence, or frantic activity" that broadcasters use to keep children mesmerized before TV sets.

Years ago, says the report, the networks aired imaginative, decent children's programs on weekdays. But now, cheap cartoons and other movies keep the broadcast coffers full while good shows have dwindled to extinction "with the notable exception of Captain Kangaroo."

The FCC study is even tougher on advertising. Children are "inundated with numerous commercial messages that may be misleading or false to the literal and immature mind of a child." The broadcasters "manipulate his needs" in a manner "destructive to the child's development..." Observes the report acidly:

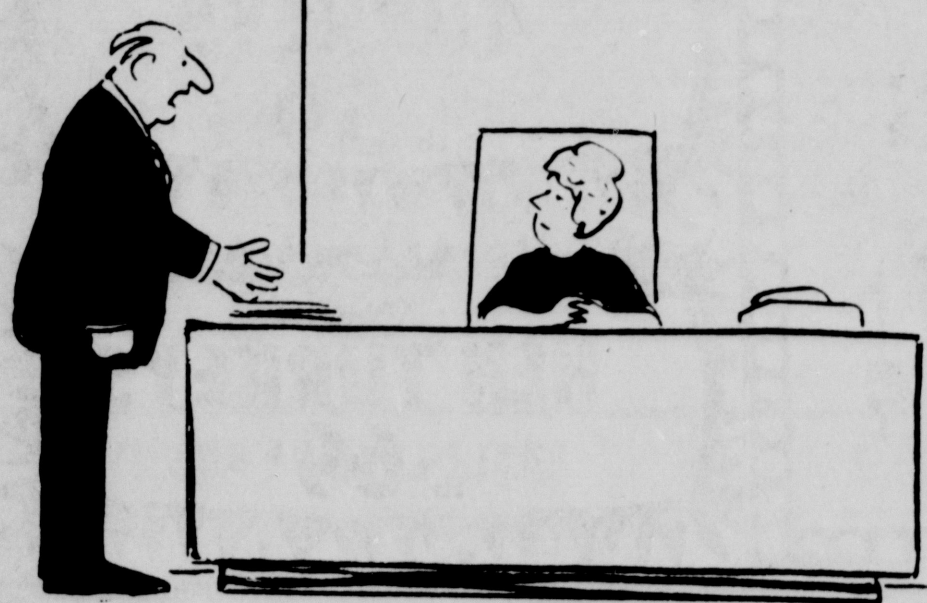

"Common sense tells us that commercials presented to sell products to three-, four- and five-year-olds are improper under any civilized public interest standard."

The Roberts report asks for an end to all advertising on shows for pre-school children, saying it is "inherently deceptive." The study would also ban mention of advertised products by "hosts" on children's programs. Kids tend to build a "special relationship" with their hosts, some of whom seem only intent on gulling them.

Finally, the study would drastically cut back advertising on kid's shows from the present 16 minutes per hour to a still generous nine minutes and thirty seconds, the current voluntary maximum for adult shows.

At the FCC, Chairman Wiley gave us a ringing declaration of independence from the past. He insisted that children's programming was "on the front burner" with him and pointed out that he had only

Insurance law is needed

I would like to appeal to all who feel as I, that they write their representatives requesting action be taken to pass a law requiring every vehicle owner to provide proof of purchase of adequate insurance coverage before being issued a vehicle license.

This is not a new idea and has been adopted by some states. I personally feel Missouri is negligent in not having this requirement. A vehicle owner permitted to drive without insurance is also guilty of gross irresponsibility to himself, his family and his victims. The uninsured motorist provision is a poor substitute for what should be required by all, and only adds insult to injury.

In view of the hardships created when tragedies occur, insurance would be a worthy measure to protect the innocent against medical expenses and property damage, in addition to providing some restitution, however immeasurable, for the loss of a life.

If enough concerned citizens send written appeals, surely our representatives will be receptive and act responsibly.

Ann Landers

Alcoholic father needs understanding

Dear Ann Landers: Please forgive me if you have trouble reading my letter. The ink is blurred in spots because I've been crying.

When I came home from school yesterday, my brother Billy told me the police just took Dad to the hospital. Billy said Dad had locked himself in the bathroom, downed a bottle of whiskey, swallowed Lord knows how many pills and then broke a mirror with his fist and bled all over the place.

Billy called the police when he heard Dad moaning. They came over right away, took the door down and carried Dad to the hospital in the squad car. Mom was at work and Billy decided not to frighten her because Dad has passed out drunk so many times and it always upsets her terribly.

Today the doctor said Dad might live, but I don't know if we will ever get over hating him for all the heartache and tears he has caused our family. Please help us handle this. — N.Y. Trouble

Dear N.Y.: Your dad is a very sick man. You and your brother must learn to understand his illness before you become sick from hating him.

Your school counselor knows about Alateen, the wonderful organization for teenagers whose parents have a drinking problem. Ask her (or him) to discuss it with you and send for their literature. You and your brother should attend the Alateen meetings together. It could change your lives, and your father's, too.

Dear Ann Landers: I came home from work early the other afternoon, sooner than expected. When I walked into the living room I found my 11-year-old son masturbating. I backed out immediately because I didn't know if I should spank him, ignore it, lecture him or what. Now that I know he is indulging in this despicable habit, what should I do? I am frightened to death because I don't know if he already has harmed himself. I am divorced and have no male who can help. Does the child need special counseling? — Frantic

Dear Mother: It is YOU who needs counseling. Masturbation is the natural way young people (both boys and girls) discover their sexual feelings. The old wife's tale that "self-abuse" causes physical harm is not true. You need a third party, preferably a professional, to advise you on how to cope with the situation.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a Registered Nurse who works and teaches in a hospital. I also assist my husband who is a veterinarian. I am sick and tired of people asking my husband why he didn't become a "REAL doctor."

Why don't they realize he IS a real doctor? He is a D.V.M. — a doctor of veterinary medicine. He had to go to college for eight years before he could practice, the same as an M.D. Only the internship is longer for the M.D. He works very hard performing medical diagnosis, taking X-rays, prescribing medication and doing surgery. I might add that there is very little difference between a hysterectomy (spay job) on a 110-lb. German shepherd and a 110-lb. woman.

An M.D.'s costs (which he passes on to his patients) do not require him to maintain a complete hospital. Most veterinarians do.

I wish people had a better understanding of (and more respect for) their pet's doctor. Please educate them, Ann. — Orlando

Dear O.: You did. And I thank you, and so will several thousand doctors of veterinary medicine.

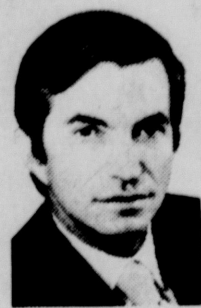

Planning a wedding? What's right? What's wrong? Ann Landers's completely new "The Bride's Guide" will relieve your anxiety. To receive a copy, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (20 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Problems of the handicapped

Dear Dr. Lamb — Last year I met a veteran I assume to be 25 years old (more or less). He lives in another state. I've never seen the young man. He is an epileptic. Having lost an only son in the service, I became interested in his case. I advised him last year that I thought the seizures could be controlled, if the proper medicine was taken. I heard from him again this Christmas. He says he is doing fine and has had no more seizures.

I am angered in this way. He has had two pretty good jobs, and would rather not have welfare. But, as soon as his employer finds out of his condition, he is released from his job.

Would you please comment on epilepsy? What causes it? Can there be a good future for him? What kind of work would be more suitable? I imagine he will need training. I am sure God loves this young man and feel 1974 will be a better year for him, especially since his seizures have been controlled.

Dear Reader — Whether God loves this young man or not, it sounds like you do. He is most fortunate to have someone like you for a friend.

It depresses me to see anyone discriminated against because of a medical problem. Of course, there are circumstances where a person can't work at some jobs because of the danger to his own health or to others. But, there are so many job situations where this doesn't apply. Often the medically handicapped individual's greatest obstacle to a good life is the ignorance and prejudicial attitude of many members of our society.

Epilepsy can be a handicap, but it depends entirely upon how severe the problem is and how well controlled it is. You are right, most cases can be managed so that seizures are rare, if they occur at all. There are even new methods which show promising results of controlling or preventing a seizure by electrical means.

Let me say at once that many qualified people have had epilepsy. Both Julius Caesar and Alexander the Great had this problem. Need I say more? If this man's problem is well controlled, he could do any number of jobs, from manual labor to executive positions that he might be qualified for. He could enter the health field, law, teaching, farming or just about anything.

Because of the uncertainty of a seizure and the safety factors involved, it would be unwise to attempt to hold a job as a pilot or a bus driver, or similar occupation.

The cause of epilepsy in most cases is unknown. The mechanism is that a spot in the brain is capable of giving off large voltage discharges. When this happens, it is like having an electrical storm in the brain. The various regions of the brain are stimulated in an irregular fashion. This stimulates the cells that cause the arms, legs and other muscles to contract, causing the convulsion.

Sometimes this overactive spot is caused from a scar from a head injury. Rarely it may be associated with a brain tumor, but usually it occurs with no apparent reason.

But, whatever the cause, such attacks can be controlled or helped medically in most cases so these people can live a happy normal life. The rest is usually up to the individual and the problems created by society. (NEA)

Hopkins new president of Sedalia Rotary Club

William C. Hopkins, district manager of State Farm Insurance Company and a Sedalia civic leader, was elected president of the Sedalia Rotary Club at the Monday noon meeting of the organization held at Ramada Inn. He will take office on July 1 and will succeed Robert Phillips.

William C. Hopkins

Elected as first vice president was Bill Arnold, who succeeds Hopkins in that post. Larry McRoy was elected from a field of three candidates to the office of second vice president.

Elected to the board of directors for three year terms to replace Dick Lehmer, Larry McRoy and Fred Davis, whose terms will expire on June 30, were Dr. Ron Shuler, Kenneth Schreiner and Carl Oswald.

While the votes were being tabulated, Phillips called on Gerald Cherry, James Edwards, Bruce McCully and the Rev. T. D. Hall for three minute biographical sketches.

Phillips announced the appointment of Hopkins and McCully as delegates to the Rotary International Convention to be held June 7-13 in Minneapolis.

Guests for the meeting were David Smith, Columbia, Mo., with Lloyd Banaka and Greg Stobel, Smith-Cotton High School student and James McMullin and Joe Meives, Sacred Heart High School students. They were introduced by David Clingman.

Helped prisoner find new life

By JOHN T. CHILDS

If I had known what I was going to get involved in, I probably never would have visited the Leesburg state prison that day. I was to interview a professor, an ex-convict, who was teaching college courses to prisoners.

After I was searched a guard took me into the educational wing. He pointed to a classroom.

Hesitantly I stepped into the room. I noticed a lone figure leaning against the wall.

On impulse I stepped over to him. Maybe I was trying to control my own fear. But I struck up a conversation.

At first his answers were monosyllabic. But as we talked, his words began to flow.

His name was Joe. He had dropped out of high school, married early. Looking for easy money, he began collecting for the numbers racket. After the third baby, his wife became ill. Her treatments were expensive.

"One day," said Joe, "I went into a bar to collect for the numbers. I had come to know the place and it looked like a pushover. The loot would help pay for my wife's treatments."

But Joe was caught and now was doing a 10- to 15-year stretch for armed robbery.

A year after he entered prison his wife died. Joe got a pass to attend her funeral but walked between two prison guards handcuffed.

"Not many people were there," said Joe, his voice dropping. "It had been months since I'd seen my wife. Now she lay in the coffin before me."

"My sister had brought my kids to the funeral home. My little girl walked over to me and said, 'Daddy, miss you. When are you coming home?'"

Joe looked up at me. "How do you tell your kids that you don't know when you'll get home? The parole board won't even tell me. I have an indeterminate sentence." He added, "No one comes to see me anymore."

I began feeling a little edgy. I hadn't come here to see this convict. Why was I becoming involved in his troubles?

The words of Jesus welled within me: "I was in prison, and you visited me."

"Look," I said to Joe, "after I finish my interview, we can talk."

That Saturday was my first

John T. Childs

visit with a convict. Joe put me on his personal visitors list, and the visits continued on weekends.

He was surprisingly intelligent and we had many good conversations.

One day as Joe and I perched on his cell bunk, he proudly pulled out a set of lessons from a Bible correspondence course. As he excitedly described what he was learning, I saw a new Joe before me. Now he was alive, vibrant, seeking.

But they weren't all sunny days. When Joe finally asked for a parole, the board turned him down.

"By this time I had become friends with other Leesburg prisoners. Many were taking college courses. And all were starved for books, magazines. Men waited to use the one available typewriter."

At first friends helped out with donations of reading material. Then churches, my office and other groups pitched in with gifts of money, typewriters, musical instruments, typing paper.

My wife Dorothy and I began working as a team and soon we had some 25 friends in Leesburg and in the Correctional Institution for Women at Clinton with whom we visited and corresponded.

None of this became too much for us if we adhered to our basic premise of lifting up Jesus by letting His love be seen in action in our lives.

The rewards have been great. I'll never forget that afternoon when my secretary called me to the phone.

"Mr. Childs?" a voice inquired.

"This is Joe. I just came from the hearing. The parole board set my release date. It's Dec. 25th, only three months from now!"

"Yes."

"The parole board has agreed to release me if I continue my college studies. I've been accepted as a full-time student at Glassboro State College. I've got a job pumping gas. And my sister said she'd look after my kids until I graduate!"

I was glad Joe couldn't see me wiping the tears.

His voice lowered, became hesitant. "But I need a little help."

Again I felt that small wince of the world, but I let His love flow. "Sure, Joe, what can I do?"

For a few seconds I couldn't talk. There was a lump in my throat. "Joe, I'll see about some new clothes. After all, a new man needs new clothes."

UCLA handles Kansas

Late 1st-half spurt carries 'Pack

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP) — The cry of "Wait 'Til Next Year" no longer resounds across Wolfpack Country.

Next year is now. The souped-up North Carolina State basketball team clinched its right to the No. 1 place with a convincing 76-64 conquest of third-ranked Marquette Monday night in the finals of the NCAA championship tournament.

UCLA had to accept third place easily defeating Kansas, 78-61, in the consolation final which opened the evening. The Jayhawks made a game of it in the first half, leading 38-31, quickly made it 40-31 in the opening of the second half and then went cold. The Bruins then outscored the Jayhawks 22-3 to take a comfortable lead and coast home.

A year ago, Coach Norman Sloan and his troops finished 27-0 but had to settle for nothing headier than the Atlantic Coast Conference championship because the NCAA slapped them with a year's probation for alleged recruiting irregularities.

The Wolfpack was burned in the scramble for a budding superstar from Shelby, N.C. named David Thompson. Postseason competition was forbidden.

So, while mighty UCLA added a seventh straight jewel to its championship collection last year, North Carolina State watched on television at home — and waited.

For better than 17 minutes, the Wolfpack and Warriors met on even terms. Marquette led by a point, 28-27.

Then, in 53 blazing seconds, aided by two technical fouls against wily Marquette Coach Al McGuire, North Carolina State scored 10 straight points to zoom into a nine-point lead.

McGuire was later to say, "I cost us a game with those two technicals. That gave them two five-point plays."

The 10 points included two layups by 7-foot-4 Tom Burleson, a basket by Phil Spence, and four Thompson free throws.

It was 39-30 at the half and 54-33 after less than six minutes of the second half. Marquette never got closer than nine points after that and the suspense was gone.

All that remained was the final score and North Carolina State's 28th straight victory in a 30-1 season.

The Wolfpack, which figured to have the better bench, used only seven players. Thompson and guard Mo Rivers going the full 40 minutes.

Sloan explained, "We called upon a very few for a great deal. It wasn't that we lacked confidence in the others."

Shooting statistics graphically told the story Monday night — 56.5 per cent for the Wolfpack and a chilly 36 for the Warriors.

Thompson's 21 points, 16 by the 5-foot-7 Monte Towe, and 14 each by Burleson and Rivers led North Carolina State. Burleson also blocked seven shots and had 11 rebounds.

Marquette, 26-5, got a super game from Maurice Lucas, 21 points and 13 rebounds and 12 points and 11 rebounds from freshman Bo Ellis.

North Carolina State's quickness brought 12 steals, three each by Thompson, Rivers, and sturdy Tim Stoddard, who added eight points and seven rebounds. They put him, Burleson and Towe on the All-Tournament team along with Bill Walton of UCLA and Marquette's Lucas.

Marquette's Maurice Ellis (31) trips and falls over North Carolina State's 5-foot-7 guard Monte Towe (25) during the first half of the NCAA championship game Monday night in Greensboro, N.C. (UPI)

Jayhawks can't hold on to seven-point halftime margin

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Senior stars Bill Walton and Keith Wilkes performed only on a part-time basis, but UCLA still had enough muscle and speed to easily shed Kansas 78-61, and take third place in the NCAA basketball tournament Monday night.

There had been some concern the UCLA seniors might not suit up for the game. Coach John Wooden had said he would give them the option to play or not.

Walton and Wilkes each were on the floor 20 minutes. Walton contributed six points and eight rebounds, Wilkes 12 points and five rebounds.

A total of 14 Bruins got to see action and reserve Pete Trgovich led the Uclan scoring with 14 points.

Dale Greenlee led the Jayhawks with 17 points followed by Danny Knight's 12. Kansas forged a 38-31 halftime lead but it quickly disappeared in the opening minutes of the second stanza as UCLA outshot the Jayhawks 22-3.

Coach Ted Owens said "although the score may not reflect it, I walked off the court with a great deal more pride and felt we played better than we did against Marquette. I think we played more like we are capable of," he said.

Stan Smith upset

ATLANTA — Buster Mottram of Great Britain upset second-seeded Stan Smith 62, 6-4 to advance to the quarter-finals of the World Championship of Tennis Tournament.

Evert tops list

NEW YORK — Second-seeded Chris Evert led five seeded players into the second round of the $60,000 U.S. Lawn Tennis Association tournament with a 6-4, 6-2 victory over Sharon Walsh.

Football owners seeking clarification of demands

WASHINGTON (AP) — National Football League owners and players meet across the contract bargaining table again today as management attempts to obtain a clarification of demands made 11 days ago by the union.

The owners, with the NFL Management Council acting as their bargaining agent, are not expected to respond to the 57 demands made by the NFL Players Association until the next meeting between the two groups, tentatively in New York in early April.

"We are trying to clarify some of the things that turned up at the last meeting," said a council spokesman. "We've spent the last week going over the proposals, analyzing them and trying to get them in as sharp focus as we can."

The 57 demands include some economic measures but many are aimed at providing greater freedom for the players and a diminishing of the authority now held by NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Ed Garvey, association executive director, read an opening statement at the first bargaining session in which he charged owners with perpetuating an unjust system of control over athletes, suppressing the constitutional rights of players and with a general disregard of the players' union.

The players have threatened to strike if most of their demands are not met, possibly affecting the start of the pre-season schedule.

The players have demanded, in addition to limiting Rozelle's powers, the elimination of the option clause, waiver system, all fines, reserve lists and training camp curfews.

They also are seeking the right to cancel trades, shorter training camps and a moratorium on further installation of synthetic turf.

Financially, the players want to increase their minimum salary from $12,000 to $25,000 for veterans and to $20,000 for rookies, a $25,000 bonus for winning the Super Bowl and $20,000 for losing; $15,000 or three game checks for participating in conference title games; $5, 000 or two game checks for playoff games, and a general increase in preseason game pay, up to $7,000 a game.

The players association was piqued at the first meeting because the owners refused to pay player insurance premiums, some $64,000 monthly, after April 1 unless the players guarantee that there will be no strike until, at least, the start of the regular season schedule.

Garvey termed the action "bad faith negotiating" and rejected the proposal for a no-strike pledge out of hand.

Sabourin case still up in air

ST. LOUIS (AP) — There are no current plans for "suspending" Gary Sabourin from the St. Louis Blues, but Coach Lou Angotti said Monday that "something has to be done. You can't justify what he did."

Sabourin walked out on the Blues Saturday, when he was scratched from the lineup against the Montreal Canadiens in Canada.

"He called me when we got back from Philadelphia Sunday night. He told me he'd be in within the next couple of days and talk things over," Angotti said.

Sabourin, 30, has been with the team since its inception and is the club's all-time leading scorer.

Solo homers lift

Royals over Yanks

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Home runs by Fernando Gonzalez and Fred Patek in the fifth inning off Fritz Peterson gave Kansas City a 4-1 exhibition victory Monday over the New York Yankees.

Gonzalez tagged the Yankee lefthander with one out and none on in the fifth, with Patek following suit one out later. Both drives were lined into the left field scoreboard, about 390 feet away.

Paul Splittorff shutout the Yankees for six innings, giving up seven hits, walking two and striking out two. Joe Hoerner and Lindy McDaniel each worked a scoreless inning before the Yankees got to Doug Bird in the ninth for their only run.

American League West preview

Pitching holds key to Royals success

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Manger Jack McKeon of the Kansas City Royals does not believe in miracles.

McKeon, now in his second year as a major league skipper, thinks a team must have the players to win a baseball pennant. He firmly believes his club has the strength to take it all in the American League this season.

"And this team thinks it can win the pennant," says McKeon. "That's one of the important things."

The Royals finished six games behind the world champion Oakland A's in the AL West a year ago. Their big weakness was pitching.

McKeon thinks the pitching situation has been remedied with the offseason acquisitions of starters Nelson Briles from the Pittsburgh Pirates and Marty Pattin from the Boston Red Sox plus reliever Lindy McDaniel from the New York Yankees.

The Royals boss has already decided that his four starters will be Paul Splittorff, a 20-game winner in 1973; Steve Busby, who tossed a no-hitter as a rookie last season; Pattin and Briles. Briles suffered a knee injury before the spring training grind opened and may not be ready to pitch at the start. If not, Al Fitzmorris will step into the rotation.

"There's no reason that Busby can't win 25 games," asserts McKeon. "He won 16 last year. Now he knows the hitters, his control is better and he has confidence in himself."

The big guns in the bullpen will be McDaniel, who had a 126 record and saved 10 games for the 1973 Yankees, and Doug Bird, who carved a 4-4 mark and had 20 saves.

The infield that made 192 double plays, the best in the AL since 1956, is back intact, first baseman John Mayberry, second baseman Cookie Rojas, shortstop Fred Patek and third baseman Paul Schaaf.

Fran Healy is the catcher. Amos Otis has no peer among center fielders in the AL, McKeon notes. He also hit 26 home runs.

Veteran Vada Pinson, obtained from the California Angels, will be stationed in right field, a spot that was occupied by several players a year ago.

"I figure on Pinson in right against all pitching," McKeon says. "He told me he does okay against lefties. We can get him out every once in a while against tough lefties and go with Al Cowens or Jim Wohlford."

Wohlford probably will be the regular left fielder. Left field was left open by the trade of Lou Piniella to the Yankees. Wohlford played with the Royals in 45 games last year and spent the rest of the season at Omaha in the American Association.

McKeon finds himself in a position that other managers would relish. He's faced soon with trimming the squad, and this may be his biggest headache.

New Franklin is back, Columbia dwindles to one and Jefferson City is questionable for the 1974 Central Missouri Ban Johnson League season.

New Franklin, after a one-year layoff in 1973, plans to rejoin the CMBJL; Columbia, which fielded two teams in 1973 is dropping back to one; and Jefferson City needs a new manager and "about $1,200" for 1974.

The Central Missouri Ban Johnson League baseball campaign is scheduled to get underway June 2 with a pair of afternoon games and three night contests. Sedalia will meet the New Franklin club, which re-enters after a one-year layoff in a night game at New Franklin.

Other opening-day games find Jefferson City at Marshall, Tipton at Centralia, Boonville at Huntsville and Columbia at California.

However, the league has a number of problems to overcome before the familiar phrase "Play Ball" rings around the league.

Possibly the biggest hurdle the league faces is in Jefferson City, where one source says the team needs a new manager and around $1,200 before officially entering the league.

Bob Nichols, who managed the Jefferson City team a year ago, says he'll be unable to do so this season because of his increased job responsibilities. But the managing problem has seemingly been solved; Gary Hovis, head coach at Jefferson City Senior High School, reportedly said he'll run the club. "...if you can't find anyone else."

But the biggest problem facing Jefferson City is money. One source said Monday he felt that about half of the amount needed could be accounted for. But that still leaves the club around $600 short before Jefferson City officially enters the loop. The entry deadline, which will cost each team entering $100, is April 1.

The league will play more doubleheaders this year, as well as more day games and twilight-night twinbills to help cut down on energy costs of lighting.

Sedalia in fact, has six afternoon dates scheduled on the tentative slate. Included are three twinbills — two at home and one on the road. In addition, Sedalia has one home and one road twilight-night doubleheader. The remaining 13 games for Sedalia will be single night contests.

Columbia, which fielded two teams a year ago, has dropped back to one for the coming campaign.

The league will again be split as in the past — East and West Divisions. Sedalia is in the West along with Boonville, Marshall, Tipton and California. In addition to Jefferson City and Columbia, the balance of the Eastern Division is composed of New Franklin, Centralia and Huntsville.

Brown, Atlas meet in feature event

Bob Brown and Omar Atlas will be in tonight's main professional wrestling event for the second time in as many weeks when the two clash in a lumberjack match in Convention Hall.

Six wrestlers will be stationed around the ring to keep the two inside. Lumberjack rules dictate that if a wrestler is thrown out or in any way leaves the ring, he is thrown back by those surrounding the ring.

The Interns, a newly-formed tag team combo, and their manager Dr. Ramey, will face Sonny Myers and Bobby Whitlock in the semifinal.

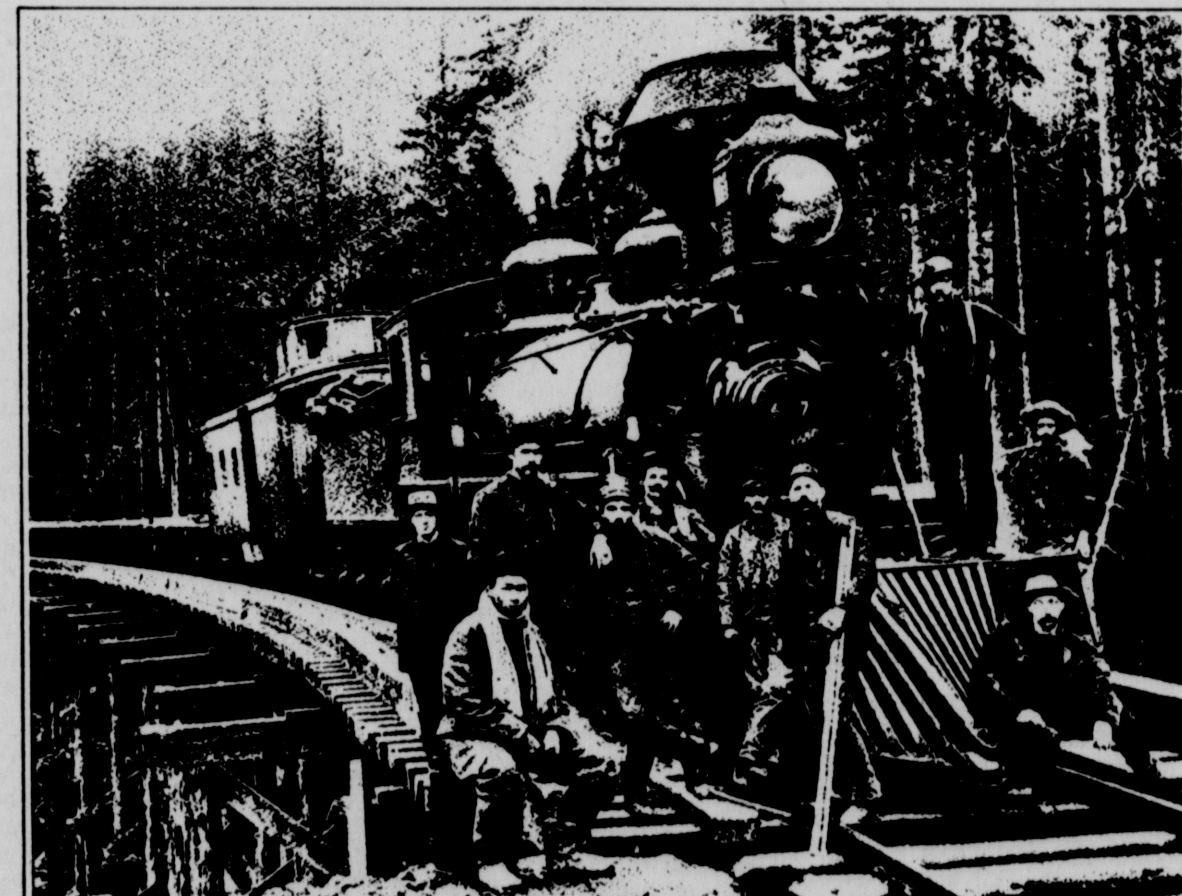

Bob Geigel meets Karl Von Steiger in the special event, while Myers and one of the Interns' ushers in the four-event card at 8:15 p.m.

The Sedalia Recreation Department has announced that there will be no family swimming at the Sedalia Junior High School Thursday night.

Norton points toward upset

CARACAS (AP) — Ken Norton, a fighting philosopher girded with the power of positive thinking, carries a 3-1 underdog role into the 15-round heavyweight title bout tonight against bull-strong George Foreman.

"I am a thinking fighter—not a physical fighter," the 28-year-old, one-time Marine from San Diego, Calif., said as he approached the most important ring test of his life. "I believe it takes positive thoughts to win."

"I have those positive thoughts. I have analyzed what I should do in every situation. I have made a thorough study of my opponent. I am ready to fight."

The challenger—or 'aspirante,' as they say here—brings impressive physical attributes into the collision with the 6-foot-3, 224½-pound titleholder who clubbed Joe Frazier into helplessness with six knockdowns in two rounds 14 months ago in Jamaica.

A towering 6-3 athlete himself, with a long reach and bigger biceps than Foreman, Norton weighed in at 212½ pounds and he looked hard as nails. Foreman, on the other hand, at 224½ is seven pounds heavier than in the Frazier fight. He looks a bit flabby at 25 years of age.

The championship bout will start at 10:30 p.m., EDT, in the sparkling, glass-domed Poledoro, with its 13,500 orange, red, blue and purple seats. It's a dazzling setting.

However, hundreds of the seats probably will be unoccupied. With seats scaled at $14 to $140 the arena is not a sellout. But Video Techniques, handling ancillary rights, reports closed circuit booking in 200 locations, with one million seats, in the United States and Canada and sales to 70 countries overseas.

Norton, a single child in a middle class Jacksonville, Ill., family, was virtually unknown until he cracked Muhammad Ali's jaw and won a 12-round decision last March 31. Ali came back to avenge the loss with a close 12-round decision in September, but Norton already was a contender to be reckoned with.

"I am a boxer-puncher," the challenger said. "This is the technique I like and hope to use against Foreman. Against Ali, it's necessary to be a chaser-hunter. I like to slip punches, block them and counter."

This will mark the second title defense for Foreman, who has been plagued by legal entanglements and divorce proceedings back home. He is being sued by groups in both Philadelphia and Las Vegas, claiming percentages of his ancillary gains. And he recently had to give his ex-wife a $235,000 lump sum and $400 monthly in alimony.

Some observers here, including former champion Joe Louis, contend that these distractions and lack of tough competition have made the champion a likely target for an upset. "I think Norton will win," says Louis.

'The Human Eraser'

Name Marvin Webster college player of year

NEW YORK (AP) — Morgan State's Marvin Webster, who carries basketball's most engaging nickname—"The Human Eraser"—today was named College Division Player of the Year by The Associated Press.

Webster, who led Morgan State to the championship of the National Collegiate Athletic Association's college division tournament, was a lopsided winner in balloting of sports writers and broadcasters across the country.

He received 63 ballots in the AP voting, finishing far ahead of West Georgia's Clarence Walker, who was second with 18. Next came Leonard Robinson of Tennessee with 17 votes. Lycoming College's Rich Henniger received two votes and Steve Platt of Huntington, Aaron James of Grambling, Bruce Baer of Defiance, Tom Jones of Wisconsin-Green Bay, Jerald Cunningham of Kentucky State, Jim Thordson of St. Joseph's, Ind., and Gene Ford of Muskingum had one vote each.

Webster, a 7-foot junior, averaged 21.4 points a game and led the NCAA college division rebounders with 740 for the season, an average of 22.4 a game. He also blocked 249 shots.

Named the Most Valuable Player in the Mid-East Conference, Webster connected on 56 per cent of his shots. His 707 points was a single season record for Morgan State and it increased his three-year career total to 1,567 points, another record.

Pro scouts consider Webster a sure-fire prospect, second only to UCLA's Bill Walton. "The consensus is that if he decides to claim himself as a hardship case to play pro basketball," said one scout, "then he will be the number two draft choice."

Webster was a premier defensive player and in one game, he blocked 15 shots. He was the major factor when Morgan State defeated Maryland-Eastern Shore, a loss that ended a 20-game winning streak for Eastern Shore. In that game, Webster scored 20 points, collected 22 rebounds and blocked eight shots.

In the NCAA tournament against Assumption, Webster bagged 29 points and 22 rebounds and impressed losing Coach Joe O'Brien. "He's everything they say he is," said O'Brien.

Webster scored 21 points and added 16 rebounds in the championship game against Southwest Missouri. He was named the tournament's outstanding player.

Springfield series reset

Monday's split doubleheader for the Smith-Cotton Tigers against Springfield Hillcrest and Glendale was postponed for the second time. The games were originally scheduled to be played Saturday, but were postponed because of snow. They were postponed Monday due to wet grounds.

The games, which will initiate the 1974 season for the Tigers, have been pushed back to Wednesday.

Following Wednesday's action, the Tigers head for Hannibal Friday to open the Central Missouri Conference season.

YOU'RE INVITED TO OUR FREE CAR ENERGY CLINIC
If you're like most people these days, you're quite concerned about the kind of gas mileage you're getting from your car. You want it to perform at its economical best. And so do we. That's why we had our service technicians develop an 8-point Car Energy Clinic for your car. It includes engine diagnosis, carburetor inspection, drive belt tension check, visual wheel alignment check, visual tire balance check, tire pressure check, air filter inspection, and a check for fuel, oil and coolant visual leaks. In all, it's a pretty thorough check-up. And the nice thing is that we'll do it at absolutely no charge to you. If corrective services are needed, we'll give you an accurate estimate on how much they will cost. There won't be any pressure on you to have the services performed at our service department.
These days, we think everybody should try to conserve fuel. We're trying to do our share by offering this Free Car Energy Clinic at our service department. Come in now.
Be sensible about saving fuel. Drive Oldsmobile—the sensible car.
This FREE Energy Clinic will be held in our Service Department from 6 to 9 P.M. on Tues. & Wed. evenings March 26, & 27.

Today's hand shows Ely Culbertson at his best. To start with he threw his Culbertson system right out the window and responded to his partner's one club opening. Then when he had a chance to stop at four diamonds he went on to five only to find that Jo, who thought Ely had a better hand, proceeded to take him to six.

Hal Sims decided to open a club. Ely won in dummy while discarding a heart; ruffed a third club; ruffed a heart; cashed dummy's ace and king of spades; ruffed a spade; ruffed his next to last heart with the nine of trumps; ruffed another club; ruffed his last heart with dummy's ace of trumps while Dorothy had to undertrump and made the last two tricks with his king and jack of trumps.

Incidentally, we have no criticism of Ely's one heart bid. System or no system you can't sit back with a two suit hand and stay out of the bidding when your partner opens.

We do have some criticism of the defense. A diamond opening or a diamond lead at trick three would have left Ely one trick short.

Co-op rents plane

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's largest dairy cooperative, focus of Watergate investigations, pays Lady Bird Johnson's family corporation $94,000 a year for use of an airplane hangared at the LBJ Ranch. The Associated Press has learned.

A spokesman for the Johnson interests said the arrangement is a bargain for the dairy group. Associated Milk Producers Inc. However, the cooperative's board of directors had tried to end the lease arrangement, which is scheduled to run until April 5, 1976.

The lease arrangement was initiated by the co-op's former general manager, Harold S. Nelson, before he was ousted by the board for mismanagement.

Nelson originally agreed to pay $73,500 per year to lease a smaller, less expensive aircraft from the Texas Broadcasting Co., President Johnson's family corporation. That agreement was signed July 1, 1970, a year and a half after Johnson left office.

Details of the transactions between the milk producers and the Johnson interests are revealed in a report obtained from court records and confirmed independently by The Associated Press.

Donald S. Thomas, lawyer for the Johnson corporations, said in a telephone interview that he had negotiated both the original agreement and the present one with Nelson.

Thomas said the present agreement calls for one of the Johnson family corporations, Western Wildflower Corp., to pay for a pilot and hangar space for the $765,000 Beechcraft King Air model 100, a 13-passenger turboprop aircraft.

He said two other Johnson corporations, Karnack Corp. and LBJ Co., also purchase flight time. But he said the milk producers' co-op has first call on the airplane and in practice has had "virtually sole use of the aircraft."

He said that Mrs. Johnson had traveled personally on the aircraft on occasion.

The milk producers pay $10,000 per year for the insurance and other intangible expenses, plus $7,000 per month for a minimum 40 flying hours, at $175 an hour. The dairy cooperative pays another $175 for each flying hour over 40 hours per month, plus fuel and any extra expenses incurred by the pilot.

Thomas said the same aircraft under comparable conditions normally rents for $275 per flying hour.

He said the Johnson family hasn't benefited from the arrangement. "We haven't made money on the proposition. The statement has been made to me by my bookkeeper that it didn't cover the depreciation," he said.

The milk producers' headquarters is in San Antonio, Tex., roughly 50 air miles from the Johnson airport.

The cooperative's board originally tried to extricate itself from the airplane deal a few months before the original lease agreement, covering a cheaper version of the airplane model, expired June 30, 1972.

Sedalia Country Club votes against merger

By a vote of 82 to 70, members of the Sedalia Country Club Inc. voted Monday night not to consolidate with the Walnut Hills Country Club. A merger would have required a two-thirds majority vote.

Robert Mason, president, announced that the 153 in attendance at the meeting was the largest such gathering of active members of the club he had seen there for any meeting.

Although there had been heated debate on the issue for some weeks, there was none when the vote was taken. In reply to a question, Richard Goodheart, secretary, reported that the matter was brought before the membership by a vote of 6-4 by the board of directors.

It was the feeling of many in attendance that many of the members of the club had held memberships throughout their lifetime and they were reluctant to change because of the friendship ties which had been built between the member families.

An older member was heard to remark as he left the meeting: "The vote has been

Surveys indicate fuel situation not improving

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government surveys show the farm-fuel situation is not improving much despite farmers' demands that they get new allocations.

A report by the Agriculture Department for the week ended March 21 says "the situation is about the same to slightly worse" than in the first half of the month.

Officials said the farm supply of diesel fuel was "tight to very tight" in parts of 16 states, compared with 13 states two weeks earlier.

The survey showed that some counties in Mississippi, Tennessee, Ohio and Kansas were "very critical" in diesel fuel supply.

Eight states—North Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska and Oregon—reported wet weather had delayed field work.

"All indicate that if farmers had been able to get into fields, fuel supplies would have been inadequate to meet demand," the report said.

Officials said farm fuel prices of gasoline had increased about 29 per cent from last Nov. 1 to March 18. Diesel fuel prices had increased 38 per cent and LP gas had increased 21 per cent during the period.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department said today fertilizer for spring planting continues to be in short supply toward the end of March.

A survey by the department as of March 18 showed "a total of 44 states report a nitrogen shortage" and that phosphate supplies were short in 41, about the same as earlier surveys.

Officials said the price of anhydrous ammonia had increased 97 per cent from last Oct. 25, when the Cost of Living Council removed price controls. That compared with an 81 per cent increase a month earlier, on Feb. 18.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers who underwent a baling wire shortage last year can expect another squeeze when the 1974 haying season rolls around.

"Baling wire supplies are expected to be short about 30 per cent if imports and domestic production continue at present rates and requirements are similar to 1973," the department said Monday.

Decision on doctor's license is defended

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Board of Registration for the Healing Arts did not act in a contradictory manner when it granted a physician's license to a Kansas City doctor convicted of performing an abortion during which the woman died, according to John A. Hailey, the board's executive secretary.

"It was purely a legal matter," said Hailey Monday in discussing the board's resolution 10 days ago of the case of Dr. Richard Mucie. "I think the resolution will show very definitely that the board did not want to give a license back to Dr. Mucie, but it had to because of the Supreme Court decision," on abortion.

Hailey's comments came in response to criticism of the board's action leveled by the Missouri citizens for life, which claimed permitting Dr. Mucie to resume practice was a perversion of value since the board continued to oppose issuance of a license to Dr. R. Bernard Finch.

Dr. Mucie served 14 months of a 10-year sentence following his 1968 conviction for performing an abortion in which resulted in the death of the 19-year-old patient. Dr. Finch was paroled in 1971 after serving 12 years of a life sentence for killing his wife in California.

Dr. Finch, 56, who passed his state examination for a physician's license last December after the board administered the test under court order, has been acting as an X-ray technician in El Dorado Springs, Mo., since being asked to come there by community leaders following his parole.

The board of Healing Arts has taken the matter of issuing a license to Dr. Finch to the state Court of Appeals in Kansas City, in an effort to block the license, but Hailey said there has been no indication when the court will rule in the matter.

"The process of punishment and rehabilitation has gone its ideal distance in the case of Dr. Finch," the Missouri Citizens for Life charged.

"It is a mockery to make a life-time sentence out of Dr. Finch's conviction. He has paid the price and deserves a full return to society."

The anti-abortion group said that if the board was so interested in maintaining its image as a protector of medical ethics, it should "recall the licenses of the doctors sworn to protect human life, who today in Missouri have already committed thousands of abortions."

Elementary enrollment is dropping

WASHINGTON (AP) — Elementary school enrollment declined 2.2 per cent in the current school year and will continue dropping for the remainder of the 1970s because American women have been having fewer children, the Census Bureau says.

An education official says the drop in elementary school enrollment — the third consecutive yearly decrease — may not result in lower education costs, but may bring about higher-quality education.

"At the same time enrollment is going down, pressure for higher teachers' salaries is going up," said Dr. William Tharis.

But he said that teachers may be better qualified and schools may employ more teaching specialists, for an overall improvement in the level of education.

The Census Bureau said in an annual report Monday that total elementary school enrollment was 31.5 million last fall, down from 32.2 million the previous year.

Four are killed in apparent murder-suicide

RICHARDSON, Tex. (AP) — Police say that an 11-year-old boy apparently killed his parents and sister and then killed himself.

The four shooting victims were Robert L. Nickols, 47, editor of a trade publication; his wife, Jeanne, 51; their daughter, Debra, 12; and their son, Kevin, 11.

"It's really strange," said a police sergeant. "We don't have a motive of any kind. Neighbors all say the boy was highly intelligent."

The sergeant said the position of the bodies and the location of a 22 caliber revolver in the house indicated that the boy shot his parents and sister and then killed himself.

Condition of the bodies, the sergeant said, indicated all four persons had been dead three or four days. Officers were called to the house Monday after members of the family had not been seen for several days.

Babysitters, two children are bludgeoned

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A Portland couple and two boys they were babysitting were bludgeoned to death Monday.

The victims were identified as Howard A. Weeks, 30; his wife, Arlene, 28; Kevin Wiebe, 8; and Todd Wiebe, 10.

They were found Monday afternoon in the Weeks' southeast Portland home.

Officials said the murders probably occurred Monday morning. One officer called the slayings "the most violent crime I have ever seen in many years of police work."

The parents of the boys are Donald and Eloise Wiebe of Portland. The victims were found by Mrs. Wiebe when she came to pick up her sons after work. Mrs. Weeks' body was found in the living room and the other three victims were in a bedroom. Their hands and feet were bound, Dentler said.

Brant Weeks, an infant recently adopted by the Weeks couple, was found in a crib unharmed.

Weeks worked for the Oregon State Employment Office.

SBA report indicates problems in its offices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Small Business Administration has delivered a report to Congress that shows serious problems in nearly one-fourth of its offices.

A copy of the report obtained by The Associated Press shows problems ranging from high rates of bad loans to bank bailouts to what is called serious conflicts of interest.

The report was a 94-page section deleted from a city-by-city audit made public last Thursday.

Rep. Lawrence Williams, R-Pa., said Monday that SBA Administrator Thomas Kleppe had misled the news media with that report because the 94 pages were deleted.

Kleppe was unavailable for comment, but a top deputy disputed Williams' claims.

At the time the 59-city audit was made public, Kleppe had declared that "SBA has no more Richmonds" — a reference to scandals at the state office in Virginia, whose director had been fired.

He said the intensive, wide-ranging internal probe has "unearthed no serious problems other than the previously mentioned situation ..."

The 94-page section deleted from the full report contains auditors' comments that SBA offices in 13 cities showed evidence of "immediate serious problems. Only seven of the 59 cities were said to have no problems."

Williams, ranking Republican on the House Banking subcommittee that received the report, said that what Kleppe "told the press and what he told the Small Business subcommittee are not the same."

"In fact, the whole SBA handling of the report was designed to withhold the truth from the press," Williams said.

Assistant SBA Administrator Randall L. Woods said that when the full report was released "we indicated to the press, as well as the committee members, that the section on the mini-reviews was being extracted because it contained unsubstantiated, raw hand-written notations by our reviewers ..."

"To release this unsubstantiated material would have done grave and serious harm, we felt, to the small business involved," Woods said. "We are presently going into each and every case thoroughly ... and we will take corrective actions where warranted."

The auditors had listed these 13 cities with having "immediate serious problems": Cincinnati; Detroit; Helena, Mont.; Jacksonville, Fla.; Madison, Wis.; Marquette, Wis.; Milwaukee; New Orleans; Oklahoma City; San Antonio; San Diego; St. Louis and the District of Columbia.

Congress passes measure on POW funeral expenses

By BRIAN B. KING
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has speedily voted and sent for President Nixon's approval a new military benefit intended as a mark of respect to servicemen who died while being held prisoner by the Viet Cong or North Vietnamese.

Under legislation passed Monday by the House, the Pentagon has been authorized to provide families of the POWs with round-trip transportation to funerals for the men, as well as living expenses and other allowances.

Sen. Robert J. Dole, R-Kan., introduced the bill Friday afternoon after reading a newspaper article that morning about the California widow of a Navy pilot, Capt. John Abbott, who had died in captivity.

In the newspaper story, Mrs. Cecile Abbott said she would have to pay for herself and her 12-year-old son to travel to the burial of her husband, whose body was released by the North Vietnamese two weeks ago.

Fifteen other bills were introduced in the Senate Friday and were immediately referred to committee for hearings and action — the normal procedure. Later, the chamber took up the bill Dole and four cosponsors had proposed. It passed on a voice vote.

When the House convened Monday, it received and passed the measure without objection or discussion. Meanwhile, the Pentagon announced it would implement the measure as soon as possible.

In Sacramento, Mrs. Abbott said: "I am just overwhelmed. I am completely amazed at the speed of this legislation ..."

"Now I really believe all this about the power of the press," she added.

Until now, the Pentagon had no authority for such travel and funeral-connected expenses for any dead serviceman's family.

On March 6 and March 13, the North Vietnamese released 23 bodies of U.S. servicemen, all officers, who had died in prison camps or en route. Some had lived a few hours, some more than four years, according to a Pentagon document.

Army morticians now are trying to confirm the identities of the remains as supplied by Hanoi. No timetable has been set for the release to the families of six bodies flown to Oakland last Thursday or the transfer of others from the Philippines.

Negotiations were continuing for the release of 32 other POWs which Hanoi said died in captivity in South Vietnam.

The new act, which applies only to dead POWs from the Vietnam war, provides the benefits for widows, parents, children, stepchildren and adoptive parents — or, if they do not want them, brothers, sisters, half-brothers and half-sisters.

ABC promoting live rock concert

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — On April 6, the American Broadcasting Company is taking its first plunge into the wild, woolly and often financially cruel world of rock concert-giving in hope of making many bucks.

Called "California Jam," the live concert will feature eight acts, last 12-count 'em 12—hours and take place at the Ontario Motor Speedway, located about 50 miles east of Los Angeles.

The speedway is an appropriate site, since Bob Shanks, ABC's man in charge, says the concert is a trial run. If it hits the fiscal retaining wall, ABC may never try it again.

The mammoth musical blast isn't being broadcast live, but parts of it eventually may appear on the network's "In Concert" series, although that isn't definite yet, said Shanks, an ABC vice-president.

"It's really designed as a live event," he said, adding that it wasn't cooked up with the primary idea of getting it on television.

"It was a natural outgrowth of the 'In Concert' series, but our basic aim was to get into the rock promotion business," he explained.

ABC is taking no chances on unknown names in its first rock concert venture. The acts, all pop music heavies, are Deep Purple, Emerson, Lake and Palmer, Black Sabbath, Seals and Crofts, Black Oak Arkansas, Rare Earth and Earth, Wind and Fire.

The network's Entertainment Division, which is putting on the show, declines to say how much the whole thing will cost — reliable estimates put it way above $29.95 — but it won't be a low-cost venture for the audience.

There's a $10-per-head tab for those buying tickets in advance, while those who choose to pay at the gate will have to cough up $15.

Even though they'll be getting a show that runs from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., what makes Shanks think rock fans will pay that kind of money to travel that far and stay that long?

"A lot of these things we don't know yet because we've never done this kind of thing before," he conceded. "What our experts tell us, about the lower advance prices, is that it was done to give some kind of incentive to buy tickets ahead of time."

Additional futures grain delivery points favored

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—Additional delivery points should be established for grain traded on the futures market, and at least one of those points should be in Iowa, according to some federal and grain trade representatives at the 37th annual National Farm Institute.

Most speakers at the institute in Des Moines Monday said they favor a change in the multi-billion-dollar futures market by increasing the number of delivery points.

Rep. Neal Smith, D-Iowa, was one of several speakers calling for other changes in the manner futures markets for commodities are operated.

Smith said the Farmers Grain Dealers Association terminal at Avon, southeast of Des Moines, was a possible corn delivery point.

He said Peoria, Ill., "and perhaps one or two points on the Mississippi River" might also be added.

"I don't think you need 20 or 30 delivery points," Smith said. "But I do think you need a few. The important thing is that delivery points be where warehouse receipts are readily available."

Alex Caldwell, administrator of the Commodity Exchange Corporation for the U.S. Department of Agriculture, said he favored more delivery points for corn.

Before 1973, only designated elevator facilities in Chicago were approved—in lieu of cash settlement for transactions—for delivery of grain under the futures market trading.

However, in the wake of criticism of soaring corn markets last summer, St. Louis and Toledo, Ohio were added to the delivery points.

There "is some economic justification to establishing a corn delivery point in Iowa," said Fred Uhlman, chairman of the board of the Chicago Board of Trade.

However, he added, "so far the only cities to be approved as delivery points" have port facilities.

"There is very definite economic reason to include Iowa because it is a primary producing state."

2—Cards of Thanks

THE FAMILY OF LLOYD (Bud) BURFORD wish to thank Rev. Ferrie Cole, Jr., pallbearers and friends for food and many acts of kindness during our bereavement.

Mrs. Agnes Burford.

3—In Memoriam

IN LOVING MEMORY OF HARVEY M. BARISH who passed away March 25, 1973.

Just one year ago today, 'Hobby' dear, the Lord called you. The Golden Gates was open wide, when he called you to his side. You are gone, but will never be forgotten.

Sadly missed by wife Mary and Family.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF my dear husband, W. A. (Bud) Hayes, who passed away 10 years ago March 26.

It left me so lonely when you went away, but it was God's will that I should stay. Gone but not forgotten.

Sadly missed by Wife.
